

ALL MERCHANTS HIT BY ADVANCE IN R. R. FREIGHT

Dry Goods Rate Going Up 300
Per Cent September 1; Shoes,
Clothing and Tobacco Jump

Steep advances in railway freight rates on all lines from the Middle West and East to San Francisco and Seattle will hit Honolulu retail merchants a severe blow after September 1.

A letter which reached here late Saturday from San Francisco and was delivered this morning to General Agent H. E. Vernon of the Santa Fe system shows the increases on general merchandise range from a small per cent to almost 300. The advances will undoubtedly make retail prices higher, although not to so great a degree.

Dry goods merchants will be affected most. The new rates on cotton piece goods and sheeting will be almost three times the old. They will be $3.70 per hundred pounds, against $1.35 at present. On other articles of dry goods the rates, now $2 to $3, will become $3.70.

On socks and underwear the increase is extremely heavy. The old freight rate of $2 a hundred pounds will become $3.70 after the first of next month.

Shoe dealers will also feel the advance, as rates on shoes will increase from $2.75 to $3.70, an increase of 95 cents on every hundred pounds.

Tobacco dealers are affected, too, although not so much as dry goods merchants. The rate on cigars and cigarettes will go up September 1 from $3 a hundred pounds to $3.70.

Hardwax men will also be hit, as present rates now ranging from $1.50 to $2 will be advanced in three divisions, the first grade to be $2.25, the second $2.65 and the third $3.20 a hundred pounds.

Druggists will also have cause to complain, as the rate on drugs will go up from $3, the present tariff, to approximately $3.70.

Men's clothing, on which the freight rate now ranges from $2 to $3, will go up to $3.70.

In a statement issued today General Agent Vernon again calls attention to the fact that the boost in freight rates was not requested by the transcontinental lines, the Santa Fe, Southern Pacific and Salt Lake, but by the interstate commerce commission.

HIGHER MEAT PRICES AFFECT SALES LITTLE

Although the price of beef has risen generally the sale of meats, in some places at least, has not fallen off. In the territorial marketing division especially has business grown rapidly in the retail meat department since June 1 when the retail business was started.

A. T. Longley, superintendent of the division, reports that four men are now employed in the retail meat department in comparison with one which started. The retail vegetable and fruit stands are likewise freely patronized. Saturday the marketing building had all the appearance of a public market, although, of course, considerably smaller.

Frank J. Alexander of Salt Lake City, was re-elected president of the American Optical Company.

Ukulele Beats Ford Joke and American Flag

1. Ukulele. 2. One Hawaiian Song. 3. Four Ford Jokes. 4. Two Villa Stories. 5. One Patriotic Song. 6. Two American Flags.

This is what one of the famous actors of the age says is the list of things a beginner must have to make success. In an article on advice to those who wish to go on the stage the writer states that it is a hard row to hoe.

After going on with a number of incidents describing the hardships in the show business, the thespian points out a half dozen of the popular dances that appear to go with success. George Cohan has proved that the patriotic song and the American flag were bound to succeed. The Ford jokes have been good material for years, and Villa also has broken into the limelight, but first and second comes Hawaii. The ukulele points the way far above the joke about them getting into your hair or coming in bunches like bananas. The ukulele is ahead of the Mexican jumper, and in the estimation of the thespian beats the patriotic verses and George Cohan adoption all hollow. The one Hawaiian song follows the ukulele which is natural.

FORTY-SIX FACE POLICE CHARGES, GAMBLING GAME

Forty-six Chinese arrested last night by Arthur McDuffie, chief of detectives, and his squad, were in police court this morning on a charge of being at a gambling game in a barricaded place. McDuffie, the star witness, was suddenly called away in the Waikiki murder case and the gambling hearing went over until Tuesday. All the defendants are free on $15 cash bail each.

Not only has McDuffie doors, bars and so forth as evidence of the barricade, but also by a clever ruse, he caught nearly all of the gambling paraphernalia.

Through their attorney, the Chinese asked for a jury trial with a hearing in Judge Monsarrat's court. The police believe that, jury or no jury, they have sufficient evidence this time to convict.

Not long ago the same place, on Hotel street opposite Wo Fat's eating house, was raided but little gambling evidence discovered. The latter defendants also demanded a jury trial and their case is now pending.

POLICE BLAME PARENTS WHEN CHILD IS HURT

Because parents allow their children to run at large on the streets, absolutely unrestricted, little Hara Masanori, an 8-year-old Japanese boy, cut both of his legs in a terrible manner this morning when he ran into an army truck on King street, near Liliha street.

At least this is the explanation of the police for the accident, which may cost the little fellow his life if infection sets in. They say that children run in front of vehicles in such a careless manner that it is a wonder more are not killed or injured.

The truck driver did not know the boy had been struck until he was informed by a passerby of the accident, so he says.

The boy's legs were both bared of skin and the muscles badly lacerated. Police Surgeon R. G. Ayer gave first aid and sent him to the Kaulaokalani Children's Hospital.

POSTMASTER YOUNG IS MAROONED BY FLOODS IN SOUTH CAROLINA

Officials at the postoffice have been expecting to hear from Postmaster Wm. F. Young for several weeks as to whether he will return here, but as they have not heard it is believed that, because of the floods which have inundated South Carolina, the letter has been delayed.

Young's home is in the district that has been flooded and as that part of the country was cut off from communication for 15 days, it is probable that the letter will not reach here for several weeks.

STREET FIGHTERS ARRESTED

Two Portuguese, Domingo Ferreira, a jockey, and Joe Macario, collector for the Coyne Furniture Company, staged a first-class pugilistic encounter about 2 o'clock this afternoon at the corner of King and Fort streets in which Macario, who bled profusely, seemed to have suffered the most. The battle was stopped by Traffic Officer E. K. Alapai, who took both men to the police station, where they posted bonds to appear in police court Tuesday morning. It is said a girl was the cause of the trouble.

Waikiki Murder Case is Still Without Clues

note is very weak unless incriminations can be discovered.

Many Japanese expressed their belief today in the innocence of both. Instructions have been left at the Queen's Hospital to notify Deputy Sheriff Asch and Capt. McDuffie the moment Tome recovers consciousness and three times in the last three days they have been called with little results.

"The girl talks good English," says Asch, "but it is very poorly connected. We can't rely on her testimony until she becomes entirely rational."

Sunday and today J. B. Castle, the girl's employer, has been taken with the officers when she was visited to obtain her confidences. His presence seemed to please her during the brief periods of consciousness.

Often Tome has passed her hand over her bandaged head and declared: "I don't know who hurt me."

WOMAN ASKS DISMISSAL
TWO POLICE OFFICERS WHO CAUSED ARREST

Saturday noon was set by the civil service commission as the time for a hearing on charges preferred by Chung Loo Shee, wife of the owner of the Hop On restaurant at 648 North King street, against Theodore Ferdinand and Samuel K. Ferreira, police officers.

She charges them, "both conjointly and severally," with "conduct unbecoming policemen and police officers, guardians of the peace and gentlemen," alleging in two pages of legal language that they gave her a ride in the patrol wagon that she did not want and arrested her without a warrant. She wants them removed.

Ferreira explained the foundation for the charges this afternoon. "Ferdinand and I found what we believed to be spoiled butter in use at the restaurant and told Chung Loo Shee to come to the police station with us," he said. "Instead of coming peaceably she objected strenuously."

"After questioning her the captain released her and turned the butter over to the board of health for examination, leaving it to that body to bring charges."

"Jimmy" Haley Is Figure In New Van Loan Story

Many Honolulu readers of the Saturday Evening Post have noticed during the last week that the name of the principal character in "Long Live the King," a story by Charles E. Van Loan in the issue of August 5, is the same as that by which the genial collector of internal revenue is best known, "Jimmy" Haley. Haley's given name is John F., but all his friends know him as "Jimmy."

But there are very few who have noticed this who know that Jimmy Haley of the story and "Jimmy" Haley, collector of internal revenue and former newspaper man, are probably one and the same.

Haley and Van Loan are close friends. During the Russian-Japanese war Van Loan spent a few weeks in Reno, Nevada, and got into the habit of dropping in to see the Nevada State Journal, of which Haley was city editor at the time, put to bed.

The Journal, a small city paper, was trying to put out a live big-town sheet, and Haley used his fund of information on every topic under the sun to pad the skeletonized Associated Press reports just as Jimmy Haley of the story did.

One night, while Van Loan was sitting on his desk, Haley got a flash that the Mikado had been wounded at Port Arthur. Nothing had been published indicating his presence there, but Haley had been studying the war, strategy, the history of Japan and everything else that might have a bearing on the news. He knew why the Mikado was needed there, what his presence and possible death on foreign soil would mean to Japan and to the world. Jumping feverishly from his chair and stuttering in his haste he gave orders that tore out the whole front page, set half a dozen typewriters to clicking like mad and upset all the arrangements for the next day's paper.

As in the story, a correction came in and the front page had to be filled with standing matter. It was not the Mikado, but one of his aides who had been wounded.

One of Haley's friends told the incident to a Star-Bulletin reporter and pointed out that Van Loan had probably founded the story on it. Confronted with them, Haley admitted the facts.

CASE OF BROWNS IS HEARD BEFORE EDUCATION BOARD

to have been related to Crowell, Brown testified.

"Any statement that Mrs. Brown and myself quarreled before the pupils and teachers is untrue," Brown continued. "Mrs. Brown does not dominate me. I deny that charge. If there are disputes over school work, they are settled by me. I don't claim, however, that I do everything. As I told you, there was team work at that school. Mrs. Brown has never directed me how to carry on the work."

Brown added that the work at the Waimea school has been commended by Inspector George S. Raymond and by Commissioner Eric Knudsen.

During a conference which Brown had with Commissioner Knudsen regarding the board's action in not reappointing the Browns, Brown said he was told by Knudsen that "the board is a solid wall of opposition against you; you are out of harmony with the board."

It was expected that the Brown hearing would be concluded this afternoon.

AUTOMOBILES FIGURE IN FOUR ACCIDENTS; NONE IS SERIOUS

The week end in Honolulu and vicinity was replete with automobile accidents none of which was serious. Police report the following bumps:

On Saturday afternoon Sergt. G. C. Reed and J. P. Fria of Fort Shafter, both on a motorcycle, ran into and knocked down a boy, David Nuahwa, who had jumped off a wagon.

The same afternoon another boy, Alexander Honan, on a bicycle, was struck by an auto driven by William Brennan at the corner of Lunailo and Pensacola. The bicycle was damaged.

Saturday evening Salke, on a bicycle, tangled with an auto truck driven by S. Moore on Queen street near Pier 14; slight injuries.

Another Saturday evening accident occurred at the first railroad crossing this side of Schofield Barracks when R. H. Campbell's car, which was coming to Honolulu with six soldiers, was rammed by a car driven by Nomura, who was going towards Waialua.

GUN CARRYING IS DISCOURAGED IN POLICE COURT

Determination to Prevent Practice Full of Danger Shown By Authorities

Four cases involving the indiscriminate carrying of firearms by irresponsible people in Honolulu occupied the attention of the police today. One affair was settled out of court, another postponed and two closed with heavy penalties.

The heaviest fine imposed by Judge Monsarrat was upon Joe Reyes, who was assessed $75 for being offensively armed in Iwilei August 2. Another charge of threatening a woman was dismissed. Reyes had fired a pistol but claimed that he was practicing shooting at a nickel.

Next came Jack Koloke, who was accused of displaying a loaded pistol in a threatening manner Sunday on Kawaiahao lane, near Queen street. He admitted his guilt and was fined $25. He was allowed one day to obtain the money.

Another "gun" case was that of Aloja, a Filipino woman accused of having a loaded gun in her possession and of saying to the man with whom she was living, "I will kill you tonight when you go to sleep." The matter was postponed one week.

The affair which did not come to court involved John Borges, who threatened his wife with a revolver, so Policeman Ed Ross reports, Sunday on Metcalf avenue. He agreed to be good and the policeman took only the pistol.

The Koloke case was the most interesting on account of the dramatic testimony given by the defendant on the witness stand.

"You can punish my physical body," he declared through an interpreter, "but I have made my peace with my God and you cannot hurt my spiritual being."

Koloke said further that he had no intention of hurting anyone, but merely took the pistol when he went to talk to members of his wife's family, who had been interfering in his domestic difficulties. The gun lent respect, he said, and gained him a respectful audience.

His wife told the court that Koloke had not been in trouble before in the 10 years of their married life and that he supported the whole family which had now got him into trouble.

The old man told a straight forward story of his offense.

"I am going to tell all the good points and the bad points, too," he informed the court, before he began.

Both the judge and the prosecution were affected by the simple words. "I am sorry for the old man," said Chillingworth, "but there's too much gun work here and we can't help it if he happens to be the victim."

Judge Monsarrat said he felt the same way.

DOUGHNUTS SHOULD NOT BE EATEN

Doughnuts are hard to digest and may cause appendicitis. Honolulu people should know that simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-ika, often relieves or prevents appendicitis.
